Legends in the Making

The final group of 24 girls and 24 boys were hand selected by a collection of the game's top analysts, prep scouts, media and coaches, from hundreds of potential high school players. This next generation of players represent communities from across the nation, each looking to make their own unique mark on the Games' rich history, continuing a 48-year legacy of impact both on and off the court.

From Court to Community

Community has remained a key fixture on the Games' mission since its founding and this year is no different. At the 2025 Games, we're taking our commitment to community a step further with new and continued investments in neighborhood networks and local organizations such as Ronald McDonald House Charities® \(RMHC®\). The Games will once again benefit RMHC through its network of local Chapters, and fans can join in supporting RMHC and the Brooklyn community through various Games Week activities.
